

Just in Time—Using Evidence in Clinical Practice

Sunday, October 18, 2020, 9:00-1:00

Description:

This experiential workshop will provide therapists with theory, skills, and practice for the application of research evidence to clinical treatment and decision-making. The close relationship between clinical decision-making and research methods will be explored as a framework for “just-in-time” learning. Participants will be guided in case-based group activities to develop research questions, search terms, find published work, evaluate research, and apply findings to clinical decision-making. Skills developed will be shared through lively presenter and participant demonstrations and post-activity discussion. This workshop will include presentation on the evidence hierarchy, research aggregators, access issues, and use of evidence immediately in clinical practice. The case studies provided will allow for exploration of how evidence can inform practice and improve treatment outcomes.

STRiVE Competencies:

- Use an evidence-informed approach in your work

Instructor: Bryn Sumpton, BSN

Bryn is an executive, researcher, business consultant and instructor. As the Vice President of Sutherland-Chan Clinic, he provides leadership and support for 12 professional clinics and new franchisees. Bryn has also taught ethics, entrepreneurship, research, and older adult & palliative care at Humber College.
